

AK ACE - PATH

Visiting Kake

January 26th - 30th

What's AK ACE -PATH?

AK ACE- PATH stands for the Alaska Alliance for Community Engagement - Partnership for Action Toward Health. It is a project where we work with communities to prioritize the impacts of climate change on health. We then take it a step further to create activities with the community to help alleviate some of the stressors of climate change on health

Who we are

We are a team of community members and researchers with the University of Alaska Fairbanks, Center for Alaska Native Health Research, including those visiting Kake: Taa'aai Peter, Stacy Rasmus, Karsten Hueffer, Hannah Robinson, Jennifer Shaw, and KyungSook Lee

We invite you to come to our Community Presentation on Monday January, 26th to learn more about the project and how you can be part of the activities while we are visiting Kake. Pizza will be provided. We hope to see you there!
